Mr Stink

lady and the Tramp

*"It was all my idea," said Mrs Crumb (pronounced 'Croooooooooooooooooome').
"At first my family was dead against it, but I just had to give this poor filthy flea-ridden dirt-encrusted stomach-turningly smelly beggar-man and his abhorrent hound a home. I love them both dearly. They're part of the family now. I couldn't imagine life without them. If only other people were as beautifully kind-hearted as me. A modern day saint, some people are saying. If every family in this country was to let a tramp live with them it could solve the problem of homelessness forever..."*

Chloe decides to hide Mr Stink in the shed.

Where would you hide Mr Stink?

How would your family react if they found him?

Mr Stink

'Mr Stink stank. He also stunk. And if it is correct English to say he stinked, then he stinked as well. He was the stinkiest stinky stinker who ever lived.'

David Walliams writes a very powerful description of Mr Stink at the beginning of the book. Read the first few pages again and then write a poem about Mr Stink using the description to help you.

You could even try an acrostic.

Rosamund

'Written on the piece of paper, in thick black letters, was a single word. LOSER! Chloe felt her stomach twist with humiliation. Rosamund must have sellotaped it to her when she left school. Rosamund was the head girl of the cool gang. She was always bullying Chloe, picking on her for eating too many sweets, or for being poorer than the other girls at school, or for being the girl neither team ever wanted on their side in hockey matches...

"What is it child?" asked Mr Stink, kindly.

Chloe sniffed. "Well," she said, "it's true, isn't it? I really am a loser."

Mr Stink bent down to look at her. "No," he said, authoritatively. "You're not a loser. The real loser is the person who stuck it to you in the first place."

Design an anti-bullying poster.

Serious Trouble

'If she woke Annabelle up, she knew her little sister would relish the chance of getting her into deep deep trouble. And this wouldn't be normal everyday trouble like not eating your cabbage or 'forgetting' to do your homework. This would be inviting a tramp to live in the shed trouble.'

What would be on your graph as the top four things that would get you into trouble, all the way to serious trouble? (Turn to p110 to see the graph)

Vote Crump

"On the front of the leaflet was a photograph of Mother looking incredibly serious, with her finest pearls around her neck, her hair so waxy with spray that it would become a fireball if you put a lit match to it. Inside was a long list of her policies."

You are standing for election to be the next Prime Minister.

Design your campaign leaflet and include your policies.

They can be as silly or as sensible as you like...

Mr Stink

"Why do you live on a bench...?"

*"We all have different reasons for being homeless," continued Mr Stink.
"Each homeless person has a different story to tell."*

Imagine you are sat on a park bench next to a homeless person and you ask them, "Why do you live on a bench?" What might their story be? It could be a sad story like Mr Stink's. Or it could be a story about a Russian secret agent, a heroic old sailor, or world famous opera singer – like the stories in Chloe's imagination.
