

THINGS THAT GO BUMP

SCARY STORY WRITING COMPETITION

Now it's your turn to write a scary story! Using the first paragraph of Things Go Bump by Kathryn Foxfield as a story starter, write a short (but scary!) story of no more than 500 words.

“Come out, come out, wherever you are!”

I shine my torch into every cobwebbed corner. Shadows stretch up the walls like yawning monsters. It's the witching hour. That time just past midnight when the world is hazy and not quite real. The perfect time of night to play flashlight hide-and-seek.

Send your entry via email to funstuff@scholastic.co.uk by Friday 22nd March. Kathryn Foxfield will select the winning entry and the winner will receive a bundle of spooky books!

Terms and conditions apply:
<https://www.scholastic.co.uk/competition-terms>

S